SOLAR STIK™ finalizes GSA ‘multiple award’ contract

St. Augustine, FL, December 2 2008:

Solar Stik continues its mission to provide the highest quality and performance portable solar and solar-wind hybrid generators through its newly approved General Systems Administration (GSA) contract. This arrangement makes it easier for government clients to acquire Solar Stik systems and accessories with pre-negotiated prices and contract terms.

“Our federal, state and local government partners told us that they needed our products, and they needed them on the GSA schedule,” said retired U.S. Army Colonel Al Zaccor, Solar Stik CEO. “We made it a priority to finalize this contract and did so in record time.”

Solar Stik is offering its Terra and Pro-Series models and selected accessories to GSA customers. These rugged, feature-rich products are designed for demanding military, disaster response and humanitarian relief operations. The company’s GSA Contract Number is GS-07F-0079V.

Located in St. Augustine, Fla., Solar Stik is the leading provider of portable solar generators. In addition to military, emergency response and humanitarian relief, Solar Stik also has systems suitable for the commercial and recreation markets. The Solar Stik system was originally built for sailors who needed power on long ocean voyages. The system was later adapted for use on land as a portable power generator.
